CHRISTIAN WORKERS

Encouraged by the Remarkable Gathering in Boston.

EARNEST WORDS FROM DIVINES.

The Presbyterians of This Section Very Busy During the Week.

RELIGIOUS NEWS OF GENERAL INTEREST

Tremont Temple, Boston, recently was the scene of a remarkable gathering, influsnoes for good from which cannot help being felt far beyond the precincts of that historic hall. The motto of this Evangelical Alliance." Unum corpus sumus in Christo," was well chosen, as Baptists, Presbyterians, Methodists, Episcopalians, Congregationalists and others mixed as a happy family of Christian workers. The addresses read were all filled with the widest Christian sympathy, which was well ushered in by the opening address of W. E. Dodge, president of the Alliance, in which he said; "We are not living in the world of two centuries or even 50 years ago. We cannot afford to even 30 years ago, We cannot allord to spend time or energy on differences which do not affect our vital belief or our loyal service for Christ, and our brothers about us who are in suffering and ignorance. We hope soon to be in our Father's presence, where everything that divides us now will seem unworthy of a thought. Why should we not agree to reduce these differences to the smallest point now, while we are doing the Father's work on earth? We shall never have Father's work on earth? We shall never have the respect or confidence of the godless world about us till we do this."

The address by Rev. L. T. Chamberlain, D. D., is said to have been one of the most striking. "Civilization." he said, "is the sum total of human progress. The test of a nation's civilization is the intelligence and character of the individual Christians. It becomes the more manifest that Christian elements must be at the foundation. Our civilization is still in the formation period. There are imminent perils such as immigration, materialism, intellectual such as immigration, materialism, intellectual pride, antagonism of classes and interests, the outrolling power of cities, illiteracy and un-ustifiable divorce. The remedial saving power to be found in the spirit and teaching of the wing, reigning Christ, to whom has been given

The earnest words of the Rev. Moses D. Hoge, of Richmond, Va., were heartily applianded, as in speaking of the importance of Christian cooperation in awakening the moral sentiment of the community, he said: "I do not believe the world is getting worse. I have too much confidence in God and too much respect for the Bible for that. But some parts of it are. I do not believe the pulpit is getting weaker, but some who try to fill it are. I do not believe the pulpit is getting weaker, but some who try to fill it are. I do not believe insquity is going to triumph; but never was it so open-faced as now, We see it in the great trusts, the schemes to cheat widows and orphans, in the attempt to defraud men of honesily gained means—in these ways we see the public conscience debauched. The rectification of the morals of trade, the purification of politics, the harmonizing of sectional differences, the reconcilitation of denominations, the arrest of Sahbath desecration, the settlement of international questions by arbitration instead of by the sword, the unfortunate relations of labor and capital—these are problems that demand our attention and which require time to work out. The people must be educated to the ideal of a country having moral relations between the people and the government, and between the p The earnest words of the Rev. Moses D. Hoge.

the people and the government, and between the people themselves."
At the closing meeting Dr. Phillips Brooks, of Boston, and Dr. C. H. Parkhurst, of New York City, filled the Temple with people, and the people with facts, arguments, illustrations, appears and epigrams.

What might be done if men were wise!
What glorious deeds, my sufferings brother,
Would they unite in love and right.
And cease their scorn of one another.

Oppression's heart might be imbued With kindling drops of loving kindness, and knowledge your from shore to shore Light on the eyes of mental blindness.

What might be done? This might be done— And more than this, my suffering brother, More than the tongue e'er said or sung If men were wise and loved each other.

Pittsburg's Musical Quota in the Observance of the Day.

SOME ELABORATE PROGRAMMES. The Character of the Music Improving

Every Year. A NICE THEOLOGICAL POINT MADE

Snow or no snow-and the present weather gives very few indications of the feathery beautiful in the near future—the glad carols of Christman Day will be sung all over Pittsburg, and the anomaly of singing with all the force of one's lungs about Dame nature's winter raiment will be easily overlooked. If the snow is not on the ground on time the fault cannot be laid at the door of any mundane mortal except his Impersonal Excellency, Old Probability. Pittsburg will go-right along and celebrate her Christmas and ought to do so with a happy heart, a clear commercial conscience and a tuneful throat. In a portion of the city churches a formal musico-religious recogni-tion of the day will be deferred until the following Sunday.

And right here it may be observed that those churches which omit formal observ-ance of Christmas Day afford their congregations an opportunity of visiting the churches which do provide musical pabu-lum. If any theologian desired to get up a nice little argument upon the spiritual re-liability of church members, who, in lieu of backsliding, slide into some other church to have their ears tickled with the pomp and circumstance attending the production of elaborate programmes of music, there is ample opportunity; for in almost every one of the churches presenting morning services there will be found a multitude of listeners extending from aisle to altar.

THE Congregationalists of Pittsburg certainly carried out the motto, "De mortuis nil nisi bonusm" on Sunday at the memorial services of the late Rev. H. E. Thomas, who for 20 years had been pastor of the First Welsh Church. this year is quite metropolitan.

THE PREE BRIDGE PROBLEM. The Committee Seems to Rather Favor

Building Than Buying. The special Committee on Free Bridges met yesterday afternoon in the office of City Attorney Moreland. Mr. Moreland reported that he has been so busily engaged in court during the past week that he has been unable to prepare the opinion on the free bridge question which the committee asked for. However, he would try to have an opinion ready by the next meeting.

Mr. Robertson, chairman of a sub-com-mittee, reported that they had written to Harrisburg and found out that bridge companies do not furnish the Auditor General with the figures that the bridge cost. The committee had learned from those interested that the Point bridge had cost $750,000, and the Smithfield street bridge $700,000. But merinde the approaches. Ine city could spend as much on them as it saw fit.

Mr. Carr said it would be bad policy to think of purchasing any of the bridges when one could be built for less money.

Mr. Monroe said it was useless to talk of purchasing a bridge. The only plan for the city was to build a bridge, which could be done for much less money.

Mr. Robertson said that he had learned there were already five charters for bridges over the Monongabela river, one at Ross street, one at South Eighth street, one at Twenty-second street, one between Twentysecond and Twenty-eighth street and one at

The "lovely hair" was transferable, and when the shades of night have fallen, in-

POPULARITY OF WIGS. It is wonderful how many people, both It is wonderful how many people, both ladies and gentlemen, resort to the use of wigs. Some indulge their vanity, as in the case of young ladies with dark eyes and hair who wish to be especially noticeable, and, as the bleaching process requires a vast amount of care, they have the scissors used, and then pay from $25 to $50 for a covering of the desired shade. Other ladies, through the Smithfield street bridge $700,000. But just what the bridges could be purchased for the men interested refused to state. They were willing, however, to negotiate for free foot passengers, the city to pay a stipulated sum annually.

Mr. Robertson further stated that he had a talk with an experienced bridge builder and civil engineer, and he had stated that a bridge could be built that would satisfy all purposes for less than $250,000. The bridge would be an iron structure, and could be built to accommodate cable cars, vehicle traffic and foot passengers. This would not include the approaches. The city could spend as much on them as it saw fit.

Mr. Carr said it would be bad policy to from $50 up in the neighborhood of $200.

They are to be had in any color, and dressed in every conceivable manner.

Among youthful people a tendency to the short curled wig is very pronounced, but the more mature devotees select a wig in accordance with their age, and dressed in the prevailing style. They are held on the head by the aid of springs so skillfully arranged that it requires a shrewd eye and some knowledge of the weak points to detect the deception. Decause no two men ever have bald spots exactly alike, no matter how much analogy may exist between them in other particulars. These little toupees are kept in place by the use of French paste, and if a man is economical and takes off his toupee when he retires they will last form. because no two men ever have bald spots he retires they will last from six months to a year, or until the bald spot outgrows them. They are very deceptive in their Those who sit in darkness, and they are nature, so much so that the tonsorial artist the generality of people living on the cross is sometimes ignorant of its presence. One of the prominent hotel proprietors of Pitts-burg, while on a recent visit to New York and stopping at the Hoffman House concluded to have his hair trimmed. He seated himself in the chair and gave the usual instructions to the artist, i.e., to trim the sides and back of his hair, but not to touch the top. With the usual neatness and dispatch of a New York barber the trimming was completed, but when giving the finishing strokes with brush and comb the teeth of the laster caught in the net of the toupee, and was very unceremoniously jerked from the owner's head. The surprise of the man was so great and his apologies so profuse and sincere that he was forgiven immediately, but was warned never to let it occur again. While the toupee was absent the hotel man concluded to have a shampoo. FAVORITE SHAMPOOS. Among gentlemen the beaten white of an egg is the most popular, and a shumpoo is generally a weekly occurrence. Some who think frequent washing of the head beneficial to the hair indulge their fancy to the extent of three or four times a week, and "top off" with singeing; an operation that loses some of the horrible suggestiveness that the name implies, when it is learned that just a common gas lighting taper is used, and only the very ends of the hair are touched. The verdict of the many who go through the singeing process is to the effect that a better and a healthier crop of hair is the direct result. Ladies depend entirely upon the hair-dresser to whom they go for a shampoo, and seldom evince any interest about the com-position of the wash. It requires from 30 minutes to two hours, according to the length and amount, to thoroughly and sys-tematically wash a lady's hair. The drying is, of course, the part of the operation that takes the time, and in spite of any and all new devices for quickening the process by steam and heat in other forms, the oldfashioned way of rubbing the hair dry is still considered the best. Experts in the line claim that the rubbing of the hair, and more especially the scalp, is the most benefit more especially the scalp, is the most center-cial part of the whole performance, as it re-moves all the dry enticle, and the scalp re-news its lite and vigor. Oily hair, though very inconvenient, denotes a perfectly healthy scalp, but requires care at least once a month. The dryer hair does not absorb the dust to the same extent, but is

Clerk McGaunegle Prepared His Report

Clerk of Courts McGunnegle yesterday com-pleted a statement showing the amount of fines imposed in this county under the Brooks law imposed in this county under the Brooks law since the first conviction under it for Blegal Equor selling in May, 1888. The total number of convictions for selling without license, on Sunday and to minors, up to date, are 130. The fines imposed in these cases aggregated $30,565. The sum collected, however, was only $2,300. This is accounted for by the fact that in nearly every case the fine was accompanied by imprisonment, and the convicted parties generally having no property, served out their fine.

The showing is not a favorable one compared with those of the preceding years, when the fine was only $50. Then nearly every one to avoid imprisonment paid his fine, and some years a good round sum was realized. The Controller's reports show that in 1881, $2,385 96 fines and casts were collected; in 1821, $25,969 05; 1883, $4.185 78; 1894, $4.199 65; 1885, $5,879 86; 1886, $5,850 66; 1887, $10,484 42. The large amount for 1822 was due to the fight made by the liquor dealers under a decision of Judge Stowe's and refusing to take out a liceuse under the then existing law.

refusing to take out a Brease under the then existing law.

Judge Stowe was reversed by the Supreme Court, and all who had acted under it were fined. The large smpunt in 1837 was due to the efforts of Speciff Agent Mcuall, who was after the liquor dealers that year. In every case, though, the fines collected for a year were larger than the amount collected since May, 1838, nearly two years.

AFTER THE P. & W. Milivale Sues the Road for Encroaching on n Street. A bill in equity was filed yesterday by the Burgess and Town Council of Milivale borough against the Pittsburg and Western Railroad Company. It is stated that in 1880 an ordinance was passed granting the railroad company a right of way along river avenue in the borough. It was conditioned, however, that the railroad should be constructed along the side of the street next the river, and leave a clear roadway of 33 feet between the tracks and the property of 33 feet between the tracks and the property line.

A short time ago the railroad company took possession of the street, and commenced to build a trestle and lay tracks for yard purposes. It is claimed that in violation of the agreement they have taken possession of nearly the whole roadway. Piles have been driven in the middle of the street, and a trestle built on them, leaving for wagons a space of about 12 feet wice and 7 feet 6 inches high. An injunction is saked for to restrain them from continuing the work, and an order compelling them to remove what has already been built, and to comply with the terms of the ordinance.

To-Day's Trial Lists.
